Frid. Hekelij & Joh. Reiskij. in Quarto. Amſt. Typis Joannis Wolters. Londini Proſtant apud Sam. Smith & Benj Walford, in Cœmeterio D. Pauli.* 1697.

Philippus Cluverius, this Famous Geographer was born at Dantzic, in the Year 1580. where his Father, being Maſter of the Mint, took great Care to educate him in the beſt manner; at Fifteen Years of Age he ſent him into Pologn; afterwards to Leyden in order to ſtudy the Civil Law, for which he had no Taſte nor the leaſt Inclination, all his Paſſion running wholly upon Geographical Studies, being a Maſter in the Art of Deſigning and Surveying. Joſeph Scaliger, then a Profeſſor in that Univerſity, ſeeing his Natural Genius bent upon Geography, adviſed him to purſue it, and make it his chief Buſineſs; whereupon he reſolv'd, firſt to viſit Lipſius, and view all the Netherlands; after that he ſpent Two Years in Hungary and Bohemia, and view'd all Germany, Italy, Sicily, France and England, with with a very curious and obſerving Eye, having Ten Languages at his command, he was highly courted in all Places, eſpecially at Rome; but retaining an old Love for the City of Leyden, he return'd thither, and fix'd under a generous Penſion from the Curators, who oblig'd him to read and teach Geography, of which he there publiſh'd many noble Specimens, as his Com. de 3 Rheni Alveis ac Oſtiis, & de 5 Populis quondam Accolis cum Tab. Geograph; his Germania Antiqua; his Deſcriptio Italiæ Antiquæ; as alſo the Sicilia, Sardinia and Corſica, all illuſtrated with Charts, and enriched with many admirable Obſervations. After his Death, in the Year 1623. Joſeph Vorſtius publiſh'd his Introduction to Geography, which Cluverius had drawn up before his Death, as an Abridgment of his Labours; this Geographical Epitomy took wonderfully in moſt Countries, being often Tranſlated and Printed in many Places, where ſeveral learned Men have thought it worth their time to Comment upon it; as Joh. Frid. Hekelius, Joh. Reiskius, and Joh. Buno, to whoſe excellent Notes the new Maps contained in this Volume are very well adjuſted; ſo that the preſent Edition may be look'd upon as much the moſt uſeful and exact, whether we regard the Gravings of the Charts, the Elegance of the Types, or the Fulneſs of the Annotations; part whereof were never printed before; all which put together, render the preſent Work the moſt compleat and inſtructive Body of Geography yet extant.
